THE CASE FOR UNIFIED COMMUNICATIONS

With the proliferation of voicemail from multiple phones, multiple email systems, facsimiles and PDAs and Intelligent Phones, Businesses and their employees are overwhelmed by messages and communications that must be retrieved in disjointed ways. Call voicemail systems, go to the fax machine, and log on to various email systems: all different platforms. It is bad enough in the office but what about at home or on the road? Unified Communications is the productivity solution to this problem.

MAJOR FEATURES:

- eVoice can deliver every voicemail to each individual users standard email box – any email platform
- eVoice IP Fax can deliver each individual's inbound faxes to their standard email box – any email platform
- Hosted Microsoft Exchange from Equinox enables retrieval of emails with voicemails or fax messages from:
 - Browser Client anywhere there is an Internet Connection
 - Microsoft Outlook Client on the user's PC or Laptop
 - From Microsoft PDAs using Auto Sync

BENEFITS

The beauty of Unified Communications from Equinox is that most of the capability is a bi-product of the eVoice™ Communication Service or the Hosted Microsoft Exchange from Equinox. The only additional costs would be for eVoice IP Fax boxes and the normal Blackberry subscription fees.

For the first time your staff will be able to use one device to manage all of their communications needs. Unified Communications smoothes information flows, enables employees to more easily collaborate with each other and be more productive, and is a big step towards ensuring that no message, no matter how it enters your company, gets lost or overlooked.
